A RANDOM GUIDE TO MONTREAL

Here is a useful guide to Montreal, assembled by a discriminating resident of that city who takes his food and drink as seriously as any other man.

Montreal is the second largest French speaking city in the world-- next to Paris. It is situated on a large island having the shape of the top of an anvil, and is 32 miles long and over 10 miles wide at one point. It is 201 square miles in area. Mount Royal rises to 770 feet above sea level. The island itself lies in a wide section of the St. Lawrence River and is connected to the Canadian mainland by bridges in all directions. The city of Montreal occupies about one quarter of this area, and shares the island with 29 other autonomous municipalities. The heart of Montreal lies on the southern side of the island. The Ottawa River flows into the St. Lawrence at the western end of the island.

Bilingual Montreal is Canada's largest city -- a cosmopolitan center more than 320 years old. The metropolitan area has a population of over 2,000,000, about two-thirds of whom are of French origin, and about 20% of Anglo-Saxon descent. Next come about 100,000 Italians who make up five per cent of the population.

Greater Montreal is the seventh largest North American City -- immediately after Greater Boston. According to the Encyclopedia Britannica it has approximately the same population as Rome. Montreal is the greatest inland port in the world and on this continent is second only to New York as a seaport.

Montreal is located 100 miles from the Atlantic at the eastern extremity of the St. Lawrence Seaway -- a dredging and power development valued at one billion dollars, which was jointly financed by Canada and the United States. The Seaway extends 1200 miles into the continent from Montreal.

The first white man to visit Montreal was Jacques Cartier, an intrepid French explorer who arrived here in 1535. He found an Indian village known as Hochelaga, which most historians say was at the foot of the mountain below the present site of McGill University.

The commercial heart of the city is considered to be Peel and St. Catherine Streets.

Montreal is well-known in world medical circles as a center of research, particularly in neurology.

The International Civil Aviation Organization (I.C.A.O.), an agency of the United Nations, and the International Air Transport Association (I.A.T.A.) have their world headquarters in Montreal.

Weather

Spring and fall are mild (wool sport-jacket weather), and summer is warm and pleasant. The average summer temperature is 70 degrees, but it may get into the 90s; if you are in Montreal during early spring or late fall, make sure you have a light outer-coat with you, in the event that the chilly wind starts whipping down the street.

Transportation

Public transit is readily available in Montreal -- bus, subway and taxi.

Taxis -- there are more than 4,000 cabs in the city, but they are not inexpensive. The rate is 35 cents for the first sixth of a mile, and five cents for each additional sixth of a mile, with waiting time costing five cents a minute. A word of warning: some of the cab drivers in this French city speak little if any English, so if you get out to a bistro in the suburbs late at night, make sure you know how to tell the cab driver where you want to go. You can call a cab from any point in the city.

Buses -- some lines operate 24 hours a day, some only from early morning to 7 p.m. You should get a schedule, available for a small sum from most news dealers. The fare is 20 cents a ride, no matter the distance.

Subways -- there are two basic subway lines in Montreal, a north-south line of 8.63 miles, and an east-west line of 4.33 miles; by April, 1967, the east-west line will be extended 3.17 miles, to go to Expo 67 and across the St. Lawrence River. Ride the subway; it costs just 20 cents, and it's the only rubber-tired subway in North America. It's quite, clean and fast, and there's no long wait for the trains.

Money

In general, foreign currency is not usable in Canada and is exchangeable only at large banks. U.S. currency is accepted, but you are advised to exchange it for Canadian at any bank or at the cashier's wicket in the larger hotels. In Canada banks are open 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Monday through Friday.

AMERICAN EXPRESS is located at 1200 Peel (tel. 861-9921). It is open Monday to Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday and Friday the hours are from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. Saturday it is closed.

Tipping

Some Suggestions for Eating and Dining

This is not a definitive list. There are other places as good or better. These we have tried. Most are located in the downtown area.

In Montreal lunch is generally from 12:30 to 2 p.m. and dinner is from 7 p.m. on.

The 400 Club: In the basement of the CIL Building on Dorchester Blvd. Three restaurants under one title. We recommend Le Coin de la Mer as informal and pleasant for a drink and buffet lunch. Reservations are not possible, so try to be there before 12:30 or after 1:15 p.m. The price is $1.95 plus drinks.

Taverns: Men only. There are places to eat and drink called taverns. In Canada they are mainly in the Province of Quebec. Some are very good. You may drink only beer, and many serve quite good sandwiches. Very inexpensive. You order two glasses of beer and your choice of sandwiches. Price: 50 cents to $1.25 including beer.

Cafeteria: The St. Lawrence Cafeteria in the Place Ville Marie (shopping promenade). Fast, clean, reasonable prices. Don't go until after 1:30 p.m. when it will be less crowded.

Creperies: These restaurants serve a Canadian cousin of the "crepe" as well as soups and pastries. They are popular. Price: $1.00 to $2.00. Wide variety of alcoholic beverages. "La Crepe Bretonne" at 2080 Mountain Street and a second under the same management at 808 St. Catherine Street East are open for lunch and remain open during the evening and on Sunday. Very popular.
