"China Assignment" Brings Award to
World's Fair Pinkerton

Good deeds are duly recognized when officer Edward Tuerack receives an honorary award from the Republic of China Pavilion at the World's Fair

Mr. Tuerack is awarded for his excellent service as one of the China Pavilion's Pinkerton guards. He started his "China Assignment" in March 1964, and has since been entrusted with the security of the China Pavilion whenever he is on duty.

Tuerack has discharged this responsibility with great devotion as well as success. He has actually seen to it that every day at the China Pavilion is a smooth one for the Pavilion staff, and an enjoyable one for the public. "Once or twice," recalls Mr. Y. C. Lee, the China Pavilion's Deputy Commissioner General in charge of exhibition, "there was a minor incident, -- a false alarm or a lost child, but Eddie always handled the situation so smoothly as if nothing had happened at all."

Eddie is liked by everyone in the Pavilion. "We have always regarded him as a member of the family," said C. Y. Peng, China Pavilion's Public Relations Officer. And Eddie considers himself as such, too. That is why he always wears a big smile when he is on duty there.

The 38-year-old Pinkerton officer is the father of two lovely teenage daughters. He was born in Manhattan, New York, and is living in Queens Village, Long Island. Before he joined the Pinkerton Police Force, he served in the U.S. Army Signal Corps.

The award, a golden plaque inscribed with acknowledgement, will be given to Mr. Tuerack at the China Pavilion by its Commissioner General, Dr. Tse-yen Tung, at 3:00 p.m., Thursday, September 23. Mr. Robert A. Pinkerton, Jr., head of the famed Pinkerton's Inc., will be present to witness the event.
